

“With a nod to the Fifties, TANIS is a feast for the eyes.

The division of space achieved by its horizontal and vertical black lines is reminiscent of the geometric abstraction evident in the later work of Mondrian. At once sturdy and feminine, it amazes us that the slim legs are capable of carrying the seemingly disproportionate weight of the wooden desk: this brings to it a touch of humor. The design is simple, utterly in balance and, thanks to its light and airy look, could be placed anywhere.”
